a Potter's Tale in Africa

Are you one of the 1000's of people with a piece of Walford Pottery in your home?
Are you interested to know more about the man and his craft?

A Potter's Tale in Africa follows Andrew's life from his humble beginnings in Sycamore Road. His travels and exhibitions in Europe and the Far East to present day life in the picturesque Shongweni Valley of KwaZulu Natal.

Andrew shares with us many of the secrets of his art. From the digging and preparation of the clay, to throwing, glazing and finally the exciting and nerve-racking firing process.

Neil Wright captures all of this in this book. And, adds his own invaluable business and marketing advice to the mix, along with a succinct overview of the history of ceramics.

For anyone that loves the craft this 186 full colour book is a must!
